

KS3 Assessment Rubric – HISTORY

Year 7

| Working Towards Age Expectations | Working At Age Expectations | Working Above Age Expectations |
|--|---|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their increasing knowledge and understanding of the past by using dates and terms, by describing some of the main events, people and periods they have studied and by placing them into different periods of time. • They begin to recognise some of the similarities and differences between these periods and are beginning to suggest causes and consequences of the main events and changes. • They identify some of the different ways in which the past has been represented. • They use sources to find answers to questions about the past. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by describing some of the main events, people and periods they have studied, and by identifying where these fit within a chronological framework. • They describe characteristic features of past societies and periods to identify change and continuity within and across different periods and to identify some causes and consequences of the main events and changes. • They identify and describe different ways in which the past has been interpreted. • When finding answers to historical questions, they begin to use information as evidence to test hypotheses. • They begin to produce structured work, making appropriate use of dates and terms. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by describing events, people and some features of past societies and periods in the context of their developing chronological framework. • They begin to recognise and describe the nature and extent of diversity, change and continuity, and to suggest relationships between causes. • They suggest some reasons for different interpretations of the past and they begin to recognise why some events, people and changes might be judged as more historically significant than others. • They investigate historical problems and issues and begin to ask their own questions. • They begin to evaluate sources to establish evidence for particular enquiries. • They select and deploy information and make appropriate use of historical terminology to support and structure their work. |

Year 8

| Working Towards Age Expectations | Working At Age Expectations | Working Above Age Expectations |
|---|---|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by describing some of the main events, people and periods they have studied, and by identifying where these fit within a chronological framework. • They describe characteristic features of past societies and periods to identify change and continuity within and across different periods and to identify some causes and consequences of the main events and changes. • They identify and describe different ways in which the past has been interpreted. • When finding answers to historical questions, they begin to use information as evidence to test hypotheses. • They begin to produce structured work, making appropriate use of dates and terms. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by describing events, people and some features of past societies and periods in the context of their developing chronological framework. • They begin to recognise and describe the nature and extent of diversity, change and continuity, and to suggest relationships between causes. • They suggest some reasons for different interpretations of the past and they begin to recognise why some events, people and changes might be judged as more historically significant than others. • They investigate historical problems and issues and begin to ask their own questions. • They begin to evaluate sources to establish evidence for particular enquiries. • They select and deploy information and make appropriate use of historical terminology to support and structure their work. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by beginning to analyse the nature and extent of diversity, change and continuity within and across different periods. • They begin to explain relationships between causes. • They begin to explain how and why different interpretations of the past have arisen or been constructed. • They explore criteria for making judgements about the historical significance of events, people and changes. • They investigate historical problems and issues, asking and beginning to refine their own questions. • They evaluate sources to establish relevant evidence for particular enquiries. • They select, organise and deploy relevant information and make appropriate use of historical terminology to produce structured work. |

Year 9

| Working Towards Age Expectations | Working At Age Expectations | Working Above Age Expectations |
|---|--|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by describing events, people and some features of past societies and periods in the context of their developing chronological framework. • They begin to recognise and describe the nature and extent of diversity, change and continuity, and to suggest relationships between causes. • They suggest some reasons for different interpretations of the past and they begin to recognise why some events, people and changes might be judged as more historically significant than others. • They investigate historical problems and issues and begin to ask their own questions. • They begin to evaluate sources to establish evidence for particular enquiries. • They select and deploy information and make appropriate use of historical terminology to support and structure their work. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by beginning to analyse the nature and extent of diversity, change and continuity within and across different periods. • They begin to explain relationships between causes. • They begin to explain how and why different interpretations of the past have arisen or been constructed. • They explore criteria for making judgements about the historical significance of events, people and changes. • They investigate historical problems and issues, asking and beginning to refine their own questions. • They evaluate sources to establish relevant evidence for particular enquiries. • They select, organise and deploy relevant information and make appropriate use of historical terminology to produce structured work. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Pupils show their knowledge and understanding of local, national and international history by analysing historical change and continuity, diversity and causation. • They explain how and why different interpretations of the past have arisen or been constructed. • They begin to explain how the significance of events, people and changes has varied according to different perspectives. • They investigate historical problems and issues, asking and refining their own questions and beginning to reflect on the process undertaken. • When establishing the evidence for a particular enquiry, pupils consider critically issues surrounding the origin, nature and purpose of sources. • They select, organise and use relevant information and make appropriate use of historical terminology to produce well-structured work. |